

Robber of Phoenix bank on FBI most wanted list

A former Tucson businessman who was convicted in 1960 of robbing a Phoenix bank was placed on the FBI's list of "10 most wanted criminals" yesterday.

He is Benjamin Hoskins Paddock, 42, who escaped Dec. 31 from a federal prison facility at La Tuna, Tex. He was serving a 20-year sentence he received for robbing a Valley National Bank branch of $4,620 in July 1960.

Paddock, who served two prison terms in Illinois and operated a garbage disposal and dishwasher franchise in Tucson, also was accused of two other Phoenix bank robberies in which more than $20,000 was taken.

The FBI said Paddock, who is balding, stands 6 feet 4, has been diagnosed as a psychopath and is considered "extremely dangerous."

He attempted to run down an FBI agent with his car when he was cornered by six agents, and arrested, in Las Vegas on July 28, 1960.

Federal agents said Paddock, who weighs 245 pounds, is a native of Sheboygan, Wis., and has a criminal record dating back to 1946. He was convicted then of 10 auto theft and five confidence game charges.

Goren On Bridge

By CHARLES H. GOREN

When North freely bid four diamonds over West's preemptive jump to three hearts, South — the opening bidder — visualized slam possibilities, particularly since his own hand was worth 20 points and he held virtually a self-sufficient suit.

He checked back for aces and after reassuring himself that the opposition was not in position to cash two fast tricks, he proceeded to six spades.

East's double of five diamonds convinced West that his partner has that suit well under control, and he decided to pursue a neutral course by opening the five of spades.

The trump lead was quite effective, for it deprived declarer of any reasonable chance to ruff a heart in dummy. He, therefore, proceeded to draw trump by continuing spades for three rounds.

Prospects for establishing North's diamond suit were extremely remote — even though the locations of the missing honors were clearly marked due to the fact that dummy was short of the necessary entries.

However, since it was his only chance, South proceeded to cash the ace of diamonds and continued with the queen.

East covered with the king and declarer ruffed as West discarded a heart. The ace of clubs was played on which West followed with the nine. It appeared that he had — at most — one more card in that suit, and, if it was the

Murphy School names principal

Tabek, a Madison Junior High School teacher for 13 years, will replace Chauncey Coor Aug. 18 in the $12,500-a-year post. Coor will become a principal in the Avondale District.

Hearing June 30

A public hearing on a proposed $2.6 million budget for the Osborn School District Board will be held June 30 at 7:30 p.m. in the district administration offices, 1226 W. Osborn.

The proposed budget is within the 6 per cent limitation imposed by the legislature, said Charles L. Whitecraft, district superintendent.

BENJAMIN PADDOCK

Paddock is known as "Chrome Dome" because of a practice of completely shaving his head, the FBI said. The agency reported he is an avid bridge player and smokes both cigars and cigarettes. They said he eats expensive steak dinners and is a frequent gambler.

While in prison, he served as an umpire for softball and baseball games.

In Tucson, where he had a wife and four children and lived in a ranch house on N. Camino Miraflores, Paddock gave time to working with the Pima County Juvenile Probation Department and in 1959 was named a special deputy to handle cases of wayward youngsters.

The FBI said he is egotistical and arrogant and is subject to suicidal tendencies. He has worked as a salesman, electrician and automobile mechanic and has had such hobbies as stock car racing and ham radio operator.

jack, South observed a way to develop an extra entry to dummy.

Declarer continued with the queen of clubs and when West played the jack, North overtook with the king, for his ten now became the master card in the suit. The ten of diamonds was put through and South ruffed out East's jack.

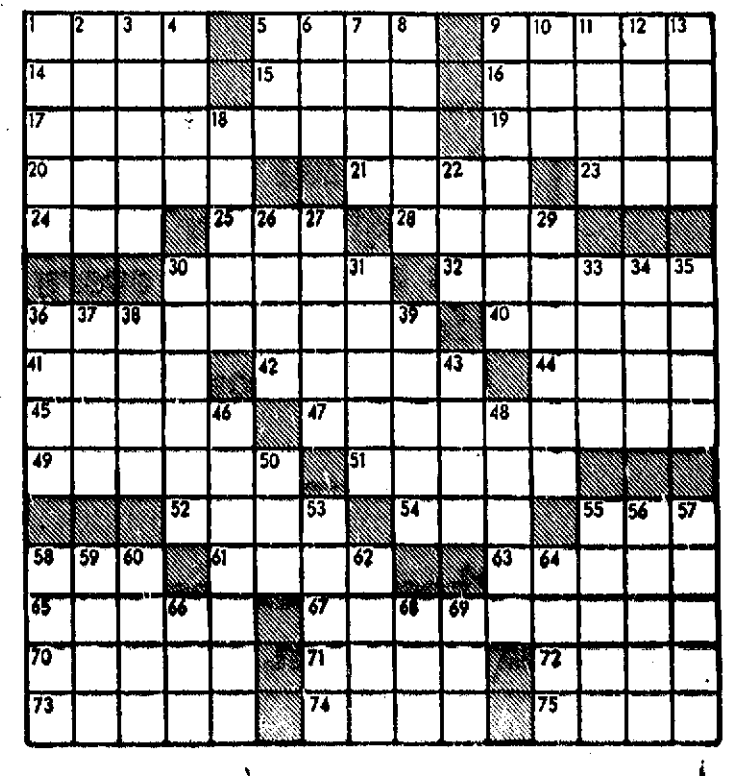

Dummy was reentered with the ten of clubs, and, after the nine of diamonds picked up East's remaining card in that suit, the diamonds provided sufficient discards to take care of South's losing hearts.

Declarer took all 13 tricks.

Germans to update 'birds and bees' in schools

13-years-olds to read details on birth, menstruation, venereal disease

Associated Press BONN — When 13-year-old Hans goes back to school this fall the teacher will hand him a new white book with a colorful abstract picture of a womb on the front cover.

When he starts flipping through its 48 richly illustrated pages, he'll read frank detail about birth, menstruation and venereal disease. He'll be provided also with a quick-reference guide to birth control methods.

He'll see full-page pictures of the moment of conception and, turning to page 18, he will read a description of sexual techniques.

The book, titled "Sex Atlas," was launched yesterday by the health ministry as part of West Germany's effort to update sex education.

Presenting it at a news conference, grandmotherly Health Minister Kaete Strobel, 62, said the book is the most advanced officially sponsored sex text in Europe.

In Germany, where Bavarian junior and high school sex teaching is still at the birds and bees stage, it's sure to catch many a parental breath.

The book was ordered in a 1968 directive from state education officials that "sex education in school should contribute not only to helping young persons recognize their qualities as men and women, but also give them insights into their own sense of values, conscience and the need to make moral decisions."

The result, Mrs. Strobel said, is a book that "offers the necessary facts and therefore the essential basis for a dialogue between young people and their instructors and parents."

The 12 chapters are biological development, difference between the sexes, puberty and menstruation, fertilization, pregnancy, birth, RH-factor, twins, methods of birth control, premature termination of pregnancy, sexual diseases and body hygiene.

It is in simple, short sentences, a rarity in German school books. And it covers thoroughly and unblushingly every aspect of sexual development.

It says the rhythm method of birth control "is recommended only for women with regular menstrual periods." It calls birth control pills, "the surest method . . . but can be made useless by irregular pill-taking."

It also gives figures on the reliability of mechanical and chemical methods.

The book publishes gruesome pictures on outer physical effects of syphilis, and well as details on how it is contracted.

Officer quits youth home

A Maricopa County Juvenile Home officer resigned under fire last month for allegedly locking a youth in a closet with two other teen-age boys who subsequently assaulted him, the Arizona Republic learned yesterday.

Edward Barrins, 24, of 2401 W. Devonshire, resigned May 24, a day after he was placed on two weeks' suspension without pay pending an investigation of the incident, said Ernie Garcia, acting chief probation officer.

Garcia said one youth, whom he did not identify, complained to juvenile authorities that Barrins put him in the closet at the county juvenile center on May 19 with the other two youths
